Gun licenses.

Mr. H. Basavegowda, Manjarabad taluk.

Summary of Representation.—As per existing rules, only the gun licensee is permitted to carry his gun. In the malnad the estate owners are the licensees and as they find it necessary to entrust their guns to their servants to guard the estates, it is prayed that the rules may be so modified as to authorize the licensees to entrust their guns to their servants on the responsibility of the licensees.

SUBJECT NO. 39. - 14

Gun licenses.

Mr. M. Venkataramiah, Manjarabad taluk.

Summary of discussion.—As per existing rules, only the gun licensee is permitted to carry his gun and the names of the servants are not now being shown in the 3rd column of the gun license. In the malnad, the estate owners are the licensees and they find it necessary to entrust their guns to their servants to guard the estates and protect themselves from wild beasts. It is prayed that the rules may be so modified as to authorise the licensees to entrust their guns to their servants on the responsibility of the licensees.

Reply of Government—The form and rules in force in British India will be adopted.

3) Subd. for orders with a draft order and a draft notification. The heading of column 2 of the form of license proposed to be adopted requires that the names of the licensee's family members or servants to whom the gun is to be entrusted should be stated while in use. It is a matter for consideration whether this should be done.

(4) The necessity for the amendment by the Govt appears from the reply given by Govt. The grievance of the estate owners seems to be a genuine.

) But before the present form could be altered, it may be useful to point out the difference between the British Indian Rules and Forms and those in force here. In British India, the rules relating to the question under consideration are Rules 28 and 29. Rule 28 relates to the possession of arms and for going armed for the destruction of wild animals which do injury to human beings or cattle.

71 X
Br. Indian Arms Act, 1878.
Br. Indian Arms Rule 1909.

71 X —"— ) Rule 29 relates to the possession of arms and for going armed for the destruction of wild animals which do injury to crops or cattle.

With regard to this latter rule, there are two restrictions, namely, that such a license shall only be granted to bona fide cultivators, and shall be valid only for the place or tract specified in the license.

71 Y —"— ) These restrictions do not apply to licenses issued under Rule 28. The forms Nos 28 & 29 corresponding to these ~~Sections~~ Rules have been given. &c 71 N —"— ) In Mysore, these two rules have been combined in Rule 18, and the form as the model form now issued under the British Indian Rule 28 is issued.

9) The difference consists in this that whereas in the form of license issued for possession of arms and for arms for the protection of person, provision is made for the use of the arms by a member of the licensee's family or servant, there is no such provision in the case of this license.

10) The distinction seems to have been made with an obvious purpose, and there is also some meaning in restricting the scope of such liberty as provided in Rule 29.

7 CX

11) With regard to the proposed amendment as proposed, it is a point for consideration whether Rule 18 may not be split up into two separate Sections as in British India. If this is unnecessary then at least two separate forms as in British India, for the two classes of licenses will be proposed. The present form need not be given up, but the heading may be altered, and an additional form on the lines of the British India form No XVIII as may be enough.
